EDITORIAL NOTE

This edition of the Brazilian Journal of Biology® contains a varied and important collection of scientific papers that encompass several areas of Biology, Ecology, Aquatic Biology and Botany. This collection represents a range of subjects in Neotropical Biology which are important to further advance the research areas in which the Journal is focusing.

As we approach the 70th anniversary of the Brazilian Journal of Biology®, preparations for a commemorative volume are in progress. We welcome original papers, reviews and contributions for this number. In 2009, one more special number will be published in the coming months.
